Junior College Role in Special Study Discussed

The role Twin Falls Junior college will play in technical training in Idaho was discussed at length by the board of trustees of the junior college district and two representatives of the Idaho state board for vocational education during a special meeting Friday night in the Twin Falls county hospital building. Samuel Glenn Jack McDaniel, both Boise, representing the vocational board, outlined policies and aims of technical programs.

The state board, which emphasized that technical training would be separate from the academic program with the vocational segment's only relationship with the academic being one of joint administration of the local junior college, were given copies of a six-page document issued by the state board which outlines policies and aims of technical education.

District Judge Daniel H. Thomas, as issued the order from Mobile following last night's confrontation in which Clark and his deputies routed more than 100 Negro teachers from the courthouse steps using their clubs as prods.

Thomas said his temporary restraining order was not intended to interfere with the legal enforcement of the laws of Alabama, Dallas county, or Selma, but added:

"Under the guise of enforcement there shall be no intimidation, harassment, or the like, of the citizens of Dallas county legitimately attempting to register to vote, or encouraging them." The latter announcement apparently gave Nobel peace prize winner Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., free rein in pushing the Selma integration drive, which he launched last Monday.

Massive Storm System Strikes U.S.

By United Press International
A massive storm system spread misery from coast to coast Saturday. There were blizzard-like snows in Plains states, drenching rains in the South, 65-mile-an-hour gales in the Pacific Northwest and crippling ice storms in the Midwest. Ice-coated highways walls produced a rash of auto and pedestrian accidents across northern Illinois where a freezing rain piled up in a thick glaze in a 12-hour accumulation.

Power lines snapped under the load of ice and blackouts in and around Chicago were numerous.

The weather bureau warned of severe thunderstorms, damaging winds and hail in central and southern Illinois and portions of Indiana. One or two tornadoes were possible, it said.

The snow was so deep in western New York that a dog sled race was canceled in a winter festival at Niagara Falls. The eight-inch fall made it impossible for motorists to get there.

At least 2,000 Chicago and suburban homes and dozens of business establishments were blacked out when power lines sagged or snapped under the weight of the ice.

Hazardous driving warnings were issued for snow and ice-covered roads in southern New York state and northern Pennsylvania. About 30,000 homes in two communities west of Erie, Pa., were without electric power because of the storm.

Lights and other power failed in the west side of Cleveland for about two hours.

At least 30 deaths were blamed on the weather. Wisconsin had eight, and Kansas four. Arkansas, Ohio, Tennessee, Indiana and Illinois reported three each.

Michigan had two and Missouri one.

Heavy snow warnings were up for sections of Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Quake Strikes Pacific Island

HONOLULU, Jan. 23 (UPI) — A major earthquake struck the island of Halmahera in the Pacific between the Philippines and China on the U.S. coast and sea survey reported today.

A spokesman for the survey said the quake occurred at 2:12 p.m. (7:12 p.m. EST) and had a Richter magnitude of 7.5.

The survey's Honolulu observatory was investigating the possibility of a tidal wave across the Pacific. But the spokesman said it was doubtful such an occurrence would cause any trouble.

The quake was also registered by the University of California Berkeley where the Jolt tameter recorded instruments indicating seismologists from the epicenter.

Repeal

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI) — A former eastern Idaho prosecutor said today he will seek legislation to repeal the negligent homicide law and put traffic deaths under a new, two-degree involuntary manslaughter statute.

Rep. Eugene Bush, R., Bonneville, said a supreme court ruling on the negligent homicide law has made it virtually impossible for prosecutors to convict negligent motorists under that statute.

Adopted originally as part of a uniform traffic code, Bush said, the negligent homicide law is viewed by the high court as a replacement for the section of the manslaughter statute that applied to auto deaths.

And, because of its wording, the high courts require proof of heedless, headlong driving in disregard to the consequences for conviction of violators, he said.

6 Killed in Car-Train Collision

HAPPY, Tex., Jan. 23 (UPI) — Six persons were killed today in a car-train crash at a crossing on U.S. 87 about 10 miles south of the west Texas town of Happy.

The victims were identified as Mrs. Lahoma Mason Green, 22, Tulsa, Tex., the driver; her parents, James Murray Mason, 67, and Ella Mason, 63, of Happy, Tex.; and Mrs. Green's daughters, Terry Lynn, 3, Jerry Bon, 2, and Joann Castle, 1 month old.

A fireman on the train, H. L. Mathis, said the car pulled to a stop at the crossing but then started up again as the train bore down. Mathis said he pulled him and wife but no serious flooding is anticipated.

The emergency brake, but the train was too close to the automobile.

A Santa Fe passenger train from Lubbock to Amarillo knocked the car more than one mile down the track. The impact split the car in two, knocked its wheels off and tore the engine out of the car.

The driver was thrown out of the car, but the other bodies were wedged inside.

Lady Bird, however, was urged to rest at the hospital. She was placed in a room near the President's on the 17th floor.

Her room was on the 16th floor but easily accessible to her husband.

Subsequently, his White House physician, Rear Adm. George G. Buckley told newsmen the President was "greatly improved" and there were no signs of complications.

Buckley conceded that Johnson might leave the hospital before the five days doctors prescribed. The physician said he would not object to the earlier departure if conditions warrant.

Reedy told reporters besieging the hospital that "there certainly is no cause for alarm." He said precautionary electrocardiograms showed there was no recurrence of the heart attack which felled the 56-year-old Johnson — then senate Democratic leader — in 1955.

In his bedside news conference the President was living proof of this. Had he suffered a heart seizure, newsmen would never have been admitted to his suite.

Reedy said Johnson probably would be hospitalized for five days for a complete rest and will have hoarseness for a week. Doctors affirmed this. RPTV reported the chief executive was fully capable of making decisions and would carry on any necessary White House duties from his hospital suite.

PISTOLS SEIZED
BEIRUT, Lebanon, Jan. 23 (UPI) — A shipment of 250 revolvers hidden among spare auto parts was uncovered this weekend by Beirut airport customs officials, newspapers reported. They were from Czechoslovakia and consisted, the reports said, of a number of past year and on plans for the coming season.

Weather, Temperatures

MAGIC VALLEY — Cloudy with snow or rain continuing tonight and Sunday, decreasing Sunday night. Windy with drifting and blowing snow in higher elevations. Travelers take necessary precautions. Warmer tonight and a little cooler Sunday night. Highs 32 to 34, lows 22 to 32, except Camas prairie, highs 25 to 30, lows 15 to 18 above zero. Outlook for Monday, partly cloudy and a little cooler. Temperature forecasts for Sunday are: 25 to 31 at Gooding, 25 to 35 at Jerome, 23 to 35 at Twin Falls, 24 to 28 at Hurley, 22 to 34 at Rupert. Temperature at 3 p.m. Saturday was 34 with 93 per cent humidity at Twin Falls weather bureau. Barometer 29.82.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS
The low pressure system off the west coast has moved northward in the past 24 hours to off the mouth of the Columbia river. Considerable over-running of warm and moist air has spread far ahead of the storm front now in the vicinity of the Washington and Oregon coast. Strong winds and heavy rains are accompanying the approaching storm along the coast where one to two inches of rain have occurred in six-hour periods. The warm and moist over-running has produced some light snows over the valleys where cold air still remains. The freezing level aloft will be expected to be between 6,000 and 7,000 feet above sea level tonight. Colder air will follow behind in the storm system.

Considerable run-off will occur in the lower elevations this afternoon again as the train bore down. Mathis said he pulled him and wife but no serious flooding is anticipated.

The storm front will move inland over the west coast tonight and

Sunday. In the meantime, periods of rain can be expected to occur over the valleys throughout the night with snow at higher elevations and briefly more intense precipitation with the passage of the storm front. Heavy snows will occur over the high mountain areas of southern Idaho with some drifting and blowing snow.

Travelers in those areas should take necessary precautions. Colder air will flow in behind the storm system lowering temperatures Sunday afternoon and night. Strong southeasterly winds with frequent strong gusts will precede the front shifting into the west after its passage.

The sky over the agricultural valleys of southern Idaho were cloudy with rain occurring mostly in the western most valleys and rain and snow mixed central Idaho and snow in the higher eastern Idaho valleys.

The lows this morning were mostly in the mid and upper 20s in Magic Valley.

WHIRLIGIG

BY ANDREW TULLY

NUT BA DEN CAMP, BLACK VIRGIN MOUNTAIN, Viet Nam, Jan. 23—This mountaintop camp may be a great place to live, but it sure is a helluva place to visit.

Nut Ba Den is an outpost in the purest sense of the word. It is a mere three acres of boulders atop a 3,500-foot mountain which sprouts like a green pimple from the flat lands 55 miles northwest of Saigon. A special forces unit of Americans and Vietnamese owns the mountaintop. The Viet Cong own the slopes and much of the surrounding countryside.

There is only one way to reach Nut Ba Den and that is by helicopter. I made the flight in a UH-1B—one of the famous "Hueys"—piloted by Capt. Ernest Strum of Seattle, and I should like to report that Strum and the other three crew members earn their hazardous duty pay.

35 LONG MINUTES—For the prudent civilian, the hazards are mostly psychological. Nobody took a shot at us, but for 35 long minutes there was always the possibility that someone might. For, once you leave Saigon, the landscape is lousy with Viet Cong armed with machineguns that can easily hit a chopper at 3,500 feet.

Unwittingly, Lieut. Col. Warren Maher of Santa Ana, Calif., made the situation crystal clear shortly after we took off. "We're not flying in a direct line to the mountain," he explained.

"We're following highway 13 in case we're hit and have to go down."

Oh, great, I thought.

The doors on both sides of the chopper were wide open so the two door-guns—Pfc. Jim McKeown of Camden, N.J., and Pfc. Winton Nelson of Pelican Rapids, Minn.—could man their 20-mm machine guns with proper efficiency.

"We depend on those gunners," said Capilot Bill Hensinger, a warrant officer from Brooklyn.

"We can't see a damn thing. They take care of us."

NICE TO KNOW—This was nice to know, but I didn't want McKeown and Nelson to be called upon to protect me. I hoped all those Viet Cong down there were asleep, or drunk, or something.

Down there was mostly rice paddies and other fields. But there were clumps of woods that gave the VC good cover. And as we neared the mountain, the two gunners seemed much more alert. Down there suddenly became only 200 feet, then 50 feet and then a scanty 10 feet as the chopper approached the summit.

Just before we touched down, the gunners could have reached out and shook hands with my VC on the slope. It seemed incredible that the enemy should let us come so close without letting us have it.

But then Captain Strum was setting the chopper down on the mountaintop, in a tiny space surrounded by room-sized boulders—and Main Street never looked any better.

THERE'S RECREATION, TOO

We are sometimes so concerned about the development of industry and agriculture in Bannock county we tend to forget that other resources might also be developed to our advantage. I remind that the development of facilities for outdoor recreation and agriculture might go hand in hand this week from the Portneuf Marsh Valley Canal company in the southern part of the county.

Directors of the company passed a resolution urging diverse interests in the county to unite in the promotion of a plan to build reservoirs for recreational purposes as well as for flood control and irrigation. The proposal has merit and it deserves thorough study.

The directors pointed out in their resolution that the county has a number of sites suitable for small reservoirs. It is also blessed, the directors note, with "thousands of acres of beautiful and peaceful mountain scenery" and natural resources favorable to fishing, hunting, skiing, skating, boating and bathing. With a concerted and cooperative effort directed toward the construction of several reservoirs, there is no reason why recreational facilities and facilities for the control and storage of early season flood waters cannot be coordinated in a program of benefit to the county. As the canal company directors contended, "there is no reason why these natural facilities, including our hot mineral bathing resorts, should not be made more notable and attractive than more remote recreational areas of our intermountain country."

Later on this month, the corps of engineers will conduct hearings in Lava Hot Springs, Downey and Pocatello on a flood control plan for the upper Portneuf river watershed. Undoubtedly a number of diverse proposals will be offered, and undoubtedly, too, the engineers will have their own ideas as to how flood control on the upper reaches of the river should be carried out. If it is at all possible, and it should be, recreation should be taken into account when the projects are planned—Idaho State Journal.

RUMANIA CASTS A SHADOW OVER ITS RELATIONS WITH THE WEST

Rumania has skillfully exploited the Sino-Soviet rift in its drive to gain greater freedom from Russian domination. Many of the steps Bucharest has taken along the independence road announcement of what amounts to tacit approval of the Chinese atomic bomb test is a serious mistake. Inevitably, this step will throw a shadow over Rumania's efforts to improve relations with the West — efforts that have achieved substantial success. Aside from the encouragement Bucharest has given the Chinese in defining the limited nuclear test-ban treaty, its statement also raises the possibility that Rumania is thinking ahead to the time when it, too, may wish to have its own nuclear weapons. This suspicion is bound to affect adversely any possible effort of Rumania to obtain aid from the United States or Western Europe for the construction of atomic power stations.

Last July Mao Tse-tung earned Rumanian gratitude by supporting Bucharest's claim for the return of Bessarabia and Northern Bukovina, areas seized by Stalin during the period of his infamous 1939-41 pact with Hitler. Bucharest may be trying to repay Mao in kind by its statement on Peking's nuclear explosion, but some rules of decency and good sense must limit the tactics used to try to get even merited territorial reifications.

Those leaders in Bucharest who may be impatient of such limits should remember that other nations have claims on territories held. For example, the Hungarians seek Transylvania with its large Magyar population. If the Rumanians stop at nothing to gain Chinese help against the Soviet Union, others may adopt the same tactics to gain Moscow's aid against Rumania.

LIVING LI'L DETECTORS

Chore for Dr. Stefan T. Possoni of Stanford University. He holds that lie detectors, used in pre-employment tests by the central intelligence agency, are outsmarting themselves. The fact is, he claims, the detectors are inclined to keep the best potential American spies out of the CIA and open the doors to homosexuals, incompetents and communist agents.

Dr. Possoni may or may not know what he is talking about. But the fact remains that machines of all kinds are becoming insufferably high-handed these days. It's high time that somebody should blow the whistle on them and call for a return to old-fashioned human thinking.

POT SHOTS

SURPRISE HER!

Folks, we stumbled across a way for you to surprise your wives. It doesn't take much effort or time, no cost and the system is guaranteed to leave them speechless, well, almost.

The next time you have a few moments and preferably while the Little Woman isn't around the house—just go to work and sharpen every last one of her kitchen knives. Don't miss a single knife.

And be sure to put a razor edge on each and every one.

If you want to be helpful, you might leave some band-aids handy.

Of course, if your wife leans in to a knife with all her strength, you might casually mention that you "touched up" the edges just a bit. That way she's not so likely to lose part of her hand or a couple of fingers.

PERMANENT RECORD

Dear Sir:

Whenever I'm around the house, I'm not aware of any life in the yard. I never see children in the yard, and it's seldom that I see anything else except an occasional bird.

But our place must be the center of considerable activity. I know for sure that our yard is used by a variety of cats, dogs, birds, children, and at least one adult who apparently was bent on taking a shortcut through the block.

I became aware of all this activity the other day while inspecting the "record" left in the snow. It's amazing how there could be so much use of the yard without the owners being aware of it!

ANYONE KNOW?

I'm getting real fed up with these sonic booms. How do I go about registering an effective protest that will get results?

I had an angel food cake in the oven the other day when one of those sonic booms hit the house and you can imagine what it did to my cake! And no one can tell me what caused that cake to fall. I've been baking angel food cakes for years and never had one fall before.

Some of our friends out in the country tell us the sonic booms have resulted in a reduction in the rate at which their hens lay eggs and I've heard that mink raisers have been just about driven out of business by the frequency of sonic booms.

It's high time we all get together and put an end to this nuisance.

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23—In calling for unity of purpose in his inaugural address it seemed almost an afterthought when President Johnson said that this should not be "without difference of opinion."

Just possibly this is at the heart of the complaints of boredom, ennui, lack of enthusiasm and commitment at the beginning of the Johnson administration. The political dialogue has become so one-sided that it sounds more and more like an uninterrupted monologue.

This does not signify that when congress really gets underway there will not be loud political voices. But the likelihood one may almost say the certainty is that they will be the old familiar noises. That is to say, the noises of knee-jerk opposition.

A "difference of opinion" is more than merely saying no. To differ implies the offer of an alternative course — in the simplest kind of political arithmetic, "you can't beat something with nothing." That is what has been lacking for a long time as the Republican party since the Eisenhower years has suffered from advanced hardening of the intellectual arteries.

It is indeed the star system. So self-referencing are the members of the Johnson administration that at times they give the effect of an off-stage chorus, heard occasionally but rarely seen. This is plainly the way the President wants it.

Not a word in the inaugural address could anyone seriously disagree with. One of the slightly comic aspects of television coverage was to listen to Republican leaders "grinning for something to say that would sound less than a ringing endorsement of the presidential address. It was inspirational and you can't quarrel with inspiration.

The President is reported to have much in mind the greater error that Franklin Roosevelt made after his landslide in 1936. FDR proposed the "court packing" plan to get around the Supreme Court's blockade of new deal legislation. Congress reacted violently and the President diminished close to the vanishing point. A safety sale prediction is that the President has just been sworn in will make no such grievous error.

At this same moment in the world's turning the United States was signing a new economic alliance with Indonesia, bringing its total aid in 10 years to more than 500 million dollars.

Nikita Khrushchev, then the Soviet premier, was promising a 250 million dollar loan to Indonesia over seven years.

And Sukarno was assuring the Australian prime minister that Indonesia had no intention of seizing West New Guinea by force. Commented one Australian official:

"Both sides recognized the menace represented by communist China."

It took just five years to reverse the situation completely.

Australia is aligned against Indonesia in Malaysia, the latest target of a Sukarno confrontation.

Red China has taken the Soviets' place in Indonesian affairs.

desirable end but is not an embracing political program which a great political party can take its stand.

Iowa is not the only state in which the survivors are dithering in the tradition of a sterile publicanism that seems to have forsaken the responsibility of executive authority.

The skeptical will ask whether President Johnson wants "difference of opinion" as a meaningful challenge to his program. In the campaign he proved himself a master of consensus politics. He wanted to bring everybody, except a few cranks, into the cozy, comfortable Johnson tent.

That is his present strategy. It worked for him when he was majority leader in the Senate; it should work again as he pursues the program of the Green Society. But this shrewd tactic does not contribute to a political dialogue. On the contrary, it dampens down political exchange.

There are reasons other than the dwindling dialogue for the lack of anything stirring and provocative in the current atmosphere. The case is the same that has been on stage for a long run. The star has for 14 months shown an unflinching and unbroken front.

It is indeed the star system. So self-referencing are the members of the Johnson administration that at times they give the effect of an off-stage chorus, heard occasionally but rarely seen. This is plainly the way the President wants it.

The great Johnson sweep in November reduced the chances for any meaningful political dialogue in the foreseeable future. The Republican survivors of the sweep along with the new Republicans from the South are precisely those given to opposing everything and anything just for the sake of opposing.

The once-unshakable Republican state of Iowa is a case in point. Before Nov. 3 the Iowa delegation in the house was made up of six Republicans and one Democrat. In the new congress the order is just reversed, with six Democrats and one Republican.

The lone Republican survivor is H. R. Gross, who can be counted on to say a resounding "no" to almost everything that any one proposes. He survived to serve a ninth term while moderates to liberal Republicans, such as Rep. Fred Schwengel, went down in the Goldwater undertow. Gross's unfailing war cry in economy and after that still more economy. This is a highly no such grievous error.

The President is reported to have much in mind the greater error that Franklin Roosevelt made after his landslide in 1936.

Having told the United States to go to hell with its aid and having consigned the United Nations to the same general area, Indonesian President Sukarno now is busily cementing new ties of friendship with Red China.

Police Find Youth With Tied Ankles

CHICAGO, Jan. 23 (UPI) — A 12-year-old boy whose ankles were bound with chains was found yesterday about two blocks from his home where his step-father had tied him to "break his habit of running away."

The boy, Bruce Liss, was clad only in his pajamas and silvered in the cold when police found him under the rear porch of a house.

Police said the boy apparently had been under the porch for about seven hours.

"I won't live with him again," he said of his step-father. "He beats me."

The stepfather, Ernest Gore, 41, an electrical engineer and a graduate of the University of Alabama, told police he chained the boy Sunday because he kept running away from home.

Gore, who told police that Bruce had run away twice before, was charged with cruelty. He was released on $500 bond pending a Feb. 10 court appearance.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 23 (UPI) — Police today searched for thieves who stole $20,000 worth of women's capri pants from the bake ovens of a clothing company.

Police said the thieves broke into a building which adjoined the cloister, Barbara of California, on San Julian street in Los Angeles and then entered through a rear gate of the apparel company.

Mel Dryfuss, president of the company, said hundreds of pairs of capris were taken from the ovens, used to bake on the colors.

Work Started to Eliminate Bad Curve at South Park

State highway department officials report work has started on the new stretch of highway that will eliminate the sharp curve at the intersection of Washington street south and South Park avenue west.

The work began last week and, according to Lester N. McDonald, state highway engineer, the crews will have to remove about 50 trees before the actual construction work can start.

The new road will extend for 4 of a mile, starting at the south edge of the Rock creek bridge.

McDonald said the weather will be a great factor during the work and he said he didn't think they could do very much until about the first of March. The construction work should be completed about July 1, or maybe before then, he said.

Aslett Construction company, west of Twin Falls, was awarded the contract, which totaled about $14,000.

McDonald said deteriorated condition of the old road also made new construction necessary.

Luci Takes Instruction in Catholic Faith

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23 (UPI) — Luci Builes Johnson, the President's 17-year-old daughter, is taking instructions in the Roman Catholic faith to decide whether she will become a convert.

Luci, who is now an Episcopalian like her mother and older sister Lynda, became interested in Catholicism last fall after she began going with Paul Betz, a 20-year-old pre-medical student at Mt. St. Mary's college, Emmitsburg, Md. It is believed that a priest associated with the college is giving the instructions.

President and Mrs. Johnson were reported to be taking a tolerant view toward the possibility of Luci introducing another religious affiliation into the first family. The President is a member of the Disciples of Christ church, but rarely attends services at his wife's Episcopal church.

The White House last night declined to say where Luci is taking her orthodoxy instruction. "The family considers religion a personal and private matter," a spokesman said. "They want Luci to be able to decide freely on her own."

The spokesman, confirming the fact of the instructions in response to an inquiry, added that "no definitive steps have been taken" by Luci. It was noted that persons interested in learning more about a faith not infrequently take instructions without joining it.

Luci is a senior at the National Cathedral school for girls, a highly regarded Episcopal school in Washington. She is very devoted to the school and to all her teachers and supervisors and often has praised them for their kindness to her and for their help with her studies.

Her father has spoken frequently of Luci as a "delightful religious girl." In an interview with a United Press International reporter Luci once said, "I am happiest when I am in church."

Luci was presented with his past noble grand's pin by Hatch for the lodge.

Preceding the ceremony a police dinner, arranged by Mrs. Trowbridge, was served. Tables were decorated in red and gold chosen colors of Mrs. Trowbridge.

House Okays Bill to Permit Privately-Owned Fish Ponds

BOISE, Jan. 23 — A house bill introduced to permit private owners to establish ponds and game preserves in areas which are not prolific enough to support game, was approved by the house.

Rep. Dale B. Garner, R., Minvate owner, can sell such fish and game as he may produce through his own individual efforts, he must obtain a commercial license from the state, which is permitted under the terms of this bill.

The bill has undergone hearings in the resources and conservation committee of the house and is now being printed, Garner said.

He said that the bill was written chiefly to clarify the responsibilities of the fish and game department where private ponds and game areas are concerned.

He explained that the areas which will be most affected by the bill are those in which streams begin and end on private property and do not last the year round.

A man wishes to establish a private pond where he and his friends may fish. The fish and game department has already determined that the number of fish is not enough for its use.

This bill, representative Garner said, enables the private owner to develop his pond.

News Around Idaho

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Idaho has moved into the final phase of a four-point program to eradicate hog cholera, announced Dr. A. O. Schneider, director of the Idaho state-federal cooperative regulation program. The goal of the first two phases was to curtail the costly swine disease, Schneider said. Goal of the present step is to eradicate the disease in the state. The final phase will be devoted to protection of hogs against reinfection, he said.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—A check of legislative records showed today that a bill that would repeal the pari-mutuel horse race betting law has been referred to the house economic affairs committee. The house calendar of yesterday listed the bill, introduced by Rep. Carl Burt, R., Ada, and six other representatives, as still being in the printing committee. The records show, however, that the bill has been printed and is now under consideration of the economic affairs committee, chaired by Rep. Ward Mills, R., Lincoln.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Counties would be authorized to sell or grant surplus property to school districts under provisions of a bill introduced yesterday in the Idaho house of representatives. The measure adds school districts to the agencies counties are authorized to sell surplus property to without offering it at public auction. Other exempt agencies are state departments, cities, villages, junior college districts.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—A bill removing weight limitations from logging trucks was introduced yesterday in the Idaho house of representatives. Under provisions of the bill, logging trucks would be exempt from the load limitations if their loads do not exceed 13 feet in height or eight feet in width. In addition to logging trucks, vehicles hauling pulp wood, stumps, poles or pilings also would be exempt from the weight restrictions. The measure was prompted by complaints voiced by several north Idaho logging truck operators. They contend that the restrictions are unrealistic when applied to logging trucks. It was introduced by Rep. A. L. White, D., Clearwater.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Articles of incorporation for I.P.C. Inc., a newsmen's association, were filed yesterday in the office of Secretary of State Arnold Williams. One purpose of the non-profit group is "to provide the press of Idaho with a united voice with which to speak in dealing with other agencies."

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—The Democratic charge that the Republican committee appointments in Congress gave Idaho an economic "slap in the face" was made today "aburd partisan politics." The Democrats' charge was made Thursday by Lloyd J. Walker, Twin Falls, state Democratic chairman. He said the slap came when freshman Rep. George Hansen, R., Idaho, was not given a seat on the house agriculture committee. John O. McMurray, Idaho Republican chairman, said Walker is "still smarting from Hansen's win over Democrat Ralph Harding in November for the house seat. Harding served on the agriculture committee. "Walker easily overlooks the fact that farm policy in the U.S. is dictated—and I do mean dictated—by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman," said McMurray.

BOISE, Jan. 23—The documentary film "Idaho" is in demand from New York to Hawaii for Girl Scouts planning to attend the senior roundup in July in Paraguay. This is reported by Louise Shaddock, head of the Idaho department of commerce, who said the latest request for the film came from the Honolulu headquarters of the Girl Scout council of the Pacific.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Idaho's minimum wage rate would be increased to $1.25 per hour under provisions of a bill introduced yesterday in the senate. The increase, which would make Idaho's law conform with federal law, was recommended by Gov. Robert E. Smylie in his state of the state message. The state's minimum wage now is $1.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Motorists would be required to stop at all railroad grade crossings if a bill introduced yesterday in the Idaho senate is approved. Sen. Perry Swisher, R., Bannock, introduced the measure, the first personally sponsored bill offered in the senate. The bill says that "wherever a highway crosses or shall hereafter cross one or more railroads, the department of highways or local authorities, whichever applicable, shall place and maintain a 'stop' sign, directing vehicular traffic approaching the crossing to come to a full stop prior to entering the crossing. Placement of such 'stop' signs," the bill said, "shall be mandatory." The measure also gives the state highway board authority to close grade crossings which it determines are unsafe.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—A need for greater safety consciousness to drop Idaho industrial accidents to or below the national average was cited yesterday at an Idaho Safety Council session. Leo Houts, a member of the state industrial accident board, said 53 workers died in accidents in the state in 1964 and 58 were killed in such accidents this year before. Idaho industrial accidents exceed the national average both in frequency and severity, Houts said. A need for better safety training in Idaho's mining industry was cited by State Mine Inspector O. T. Hansen. Howard M. Cullimore, president of the Snake River Mutual Insurance company, told the safety council at its luncheon a "change of attitude" will be needed to reduce highway slaughter. Drivers in general, said Cullimore, are a "bunch of unmoral goons—fickle, inconsistent and selfish." The council elected Ollie Arribalzaga, Boise, as its new president to succeed A. L. Sawyer, also Boise. Other officers elected were Ken Miller, Boise, and G. F. Chilton, Post Falls, vice presidents, and Hugh A. Wilson, Boise, secretary.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—The Western Idaho State fair ended 1964 with a surplus of $10,334 for operation in 1965, announced Manager Ambrose Johnson. He said fair profits from its Aug. 25-29 run were $22,000. This leaves all tax revenues received by the fair board available for development of new fairgrounds, he said.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Lieut. Gov. William E. Drevlow marked his 75th birthday anniversary today. He planned no special observance and expected to spend part of the day in the governor's office at the statehouse. Drevlow, whose home is at Craigmont, is presiding officer of the senator during the legislative session. During the past week he has served as acting governor in the absence of Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who attended the presidential inaugural in Washington and the Republican national committee meeting in Chicago.

BOISE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—The Idaho senate asked yesterday to petition federal authorities for an investigation of freight rates described as discriminating against Idaho, Montana and Washington. The memorial was introduced by the public resources and public reversion committee, headed by Sen. Don W. Samuelson, R., Bonner. "It is reported," the memorial said, "that railroad and trucking freight rates, relating to interstate shipment and transporting of foodstuffs, raw materials, farm produce, farm equipment and implements, vehicles and all other consumer items, in the northwestern states of Idaho, Montana and Washington are 100 per cent to 150 per cent greater than related freight rates in the remaining several states of the United States." Samuelson cited as an example rates he said are charged for shipment of boats manufactured in the Midwest. He said rates to most of the country are $20 per boat in carload shipments. But he said the charge to north Idaho is $50 per boat.

Mathematics Explained at PTA Meeting

RICHFIELD, Jan. 23—Richfield PTA members Thursday heard about modern mathematics as explained by Supt. P. R. Briggs and O. Gary Kissler, Richfield mathematics instructor.

Superintendent Briggs told advantages of modern mathematics in creating new interest, making learning much easier and obtaining a greater understanding of numbers.

Modern mathematics was instituted in the Richfield schools three years ago, Briggs stated. All grade teachers have attended a teacher's training school and all grades have had some form of modern mathematics.

With the anticipated state adoption of the system modern mathematics will be taught in Richfield next year in the first three grades of the elementary school and the seventh and eighth grades, as well as high school mathematics classes. Standard arithmetic also will be taught and routine mathematical subjects in high school, he stated.

Kissler described modern mathematics as a new way of thinking and old mathematics as a useful tool, illustrating his talk with board diagrams and comparing the new system with the old to building a modern house vs. building one without conveniences.

The flag salute was led by Eddy Powell and Joel Powell of Cub Pack 54, under the direction of Mrs. Carl Paulson, den mother. Mrs. L. T. Sanders gave the PTA prayer.

A girl's sextet sang with Mrs. Sanders as piano accompanist.

Miscellaneous Expenses Offer More Deductions

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Association

At the bottom of page two of your 1960 return you will find the heading "Other Deductions" under the Itemized Deduction section. Here you will put all those deductions you could find no proper place for in the other sections.

Most commonly listed here are union dues or dues paid to professional societies, any non-reimbursed business entertainment expense, the cost of safety equipment such as safety shoes, protective glasses and protective aprons, fees paid to an employment agency.

Internal Revenue regulations also provide that you may deduct here all ordinary and necessary business expense for which you have not been reimbursed by your employer, together with all such expenses connected with the production or collection of income or for the management and protection of property held for the production of income.

This means that if in the performance of your work you subscribe to trade papers, technical journals or professional publications you may deduct such costs.

Investors who rent a safety deposit box for the protection of their securities may deduct the rental as well as the cost of subscriptions to any financial publications they may consult in managing their investments.

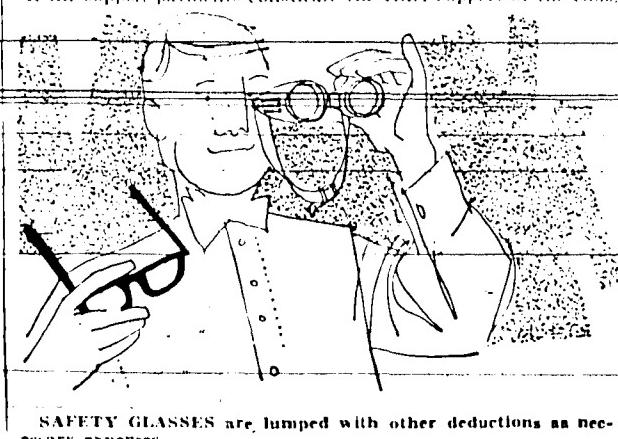

Certain occupations require special clothing such as is worn by men working around acids, blast furnaces and cold storage rooms. So long as these items of clothing are not readily adaptable to ordinary use their cost and maintenance are deductible. For this reason the cost of balaclava work shirts worn by men in a factory are not deductible. Neither is the cost of special uniforms which are equipped with snap buttons, the removal of which makes them readily convertible to ordinary use.

Small work tools having a life expectancy of less than a year, such as those used by carpenters, electricians or other tradesmen are also deductible.

You may also deduct in this section gambling losses, but only to the extent of your winnings. If you won $300 at the race track but had $400 in other gambling losses you could reduce your gain to the $100 net figure. But if your losses exceeded your gains you could not show a net loss.

A divorced or legally separated man who makes periodic payments of alimony or separate maintenance in accordance with a court decree may deduct such payments. However, you may not deduct such payments if made voluntarily or in the absence of a written separation agreement. Under no circumstances may payments made for the support of minor children be deducted in this section.

If the support payments constitute the chief support of the child, SAFETY GLASSES are lumped with other deductions as necessary expenses.

the child may be listed as a dependent on his father's return, entitling the father to a $600 dependency credit.

In all cases where the alimony or separate maintenance payments are deductible by the man they are reportable as income by the wife on her separate return.

Also in this section may be deducted educational expenses if the courses are primarily to improve or maintain skills in your employment or if they are required by your employer or regulations as a condition of employment. However, if the education is designed initially to qualify a person for a position, to help him obtain a new position or to advance substantially in his field or for professional reasons they are not deductible.

Fewer Births Are Reported In Minidoka

RUPERT, Jan. 23 — Fewer babies were born in Minidoka County during 1964 than in either of the two previous years, while more deaths were recorded in the county for the year than either of the two previous years, according to Mrs. Mary Ellen Carlson, registrar for vital statistics in the county.

However, she said, births far outnumbered deaths for the year.

A total of 260 births were reported for 1964, compared to 310 for 1963 and 372 for 1962. Of this year's babies, 122 were male and 148 female.

The registrar reported 100 deaths for the year just past, 59 of which were male and 50 female, while only 87 deaths were reported for each of the years 1962 and 1963.

Peak month for births was November, when 10 males and 23 females were born. January was the slowest month when only six males and two female births were recorded.

The most deaths were recorded in July when eight males and eight females died, and the fewest deaths occurred in August when only three male deaths were recorded.

Idaho Senate Has Only One Woman Senator

she has been connected with politics for years. She spent nine years in Washington, D.C., assisting her father, the late John Thomas, senator from Idaho, during his two terms of office, and is the wife of the late Sen. C. Wayland Brooks of Illinois, who served for eight years.

Beauty Advice

I have never yet seen a finer method of improving the complexion. Wrinkles are smoothed, dryness is checked, blemishes vanish and the skin takes on a healthy, youthful look . . . (Extract from a report by Margaret Merrill suggesting the use of the moist tropical oil of olive as a powder base.) Most druggists are now able to obtain supplies of this oil which gives glorious loveliness to the skin.

T.F. Bows 52-43 To Indians After Beating Rams

POCATELLO, Jan. 23 (AP) — The Pocatello Indians held on despite a fourth-quarter scoring spree on the part of the Twin Falls Bruins tonight that cut a 20-point lead down to the final 52-43 tally. The win boosts the Indian record to a 7-6.

76ers Stop Celtic Skein At 16 Games

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Jan. 23 (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers, stirring late Boston rally, stopped the lites of the game kept Pocatello hopping to the charity line and kept the Indians out of danger.

The loss kept the Celtics from tying an NBA record of 17 consecutive victories, set by the Washington Capitols in 1948 and by the Celtics in 1959. Red Auerbach, the Celtics' present coach, coached both teams at the time.

Against the 76ers, though, he could only sit by and watch a desperate Boston rally sparked by Sam Jones' fall short.

Down 90-82 in the fourth quarter, the Celts got three jump shots from Jones and two free throws from John Havlicek cutting the lead to 93-90.

Chamberlain, playing in his third game for the 76ers since they acquired him from San Francisco, was more of a passer and rebounder than a scorer. Philadelphia has won all three games with the 7-foot, 1-inch in making innumerable passing and three-game errors.

He scored only 16 points but grabbed 44 rebounds and held Bill Russell without a field goal in the game. Russell scored on only four free throws and snared 17 rebounds.

Boston jumped to a 22-10 lead in the first nine minutes but quickly cooled off and led by only 23-22 at the end of the quarter.

Larry Costello put Philadelphia ahead 30-28 with two free throws early in the second period, and the 76ers never relinquished the lead.

MURTAUGH, Jan. 23 — The Murtaugh Red Devils blitzed the Kimberly Bulldogs with a 20-point third quarter tonight and coasted into a 73-59 victory.

Ahead 33-22 at halftime, Murtaugh opened the second half red hot. The Devils hit 11 of 14 attempts from the field and seven of 10 from the foul line in turning the game into a rout.

Chief executioner was Del Rose, who hit 11 of his 22 points during the surge.

Kimberly won the sophomore game 60-51 and Murtaugh claimed a freshman win.

Wildcats Drop
Bobcats 83-72

BOZEMAN, Mont., Jan. 23 (AP) — The Weber College Wildcats from Ogden, Utah, moved into second place in the Big Sky basketball loop today, defeating Montana State college 83-72 at Bozeman.

Weber dominated most of the first half, jumping off to a 10-5 lead in the first four minutes of play. At the half, Weber had a 43-33 margin.

The only strong first half Bobcat attack came in the last five minutes, when MSC scored 0 points. The Bobcats put up a harder fight in the second half, and the lead was never greater than six points.

The game gave Weber a 3-1 conference record, to put them in second place behind Gonzaga. MSC is 3-2 in conference play.

TEMPE, Ariz., Jan. 23 (AP) — Hamilton broke a school record and scored 35 points to lead Arizona State University to a 99-93 non-league victory over Utah State tonight. His 15 field goals topped the ASU mark of 14.

Steve Estes, the nation's No. 1 voter, led the Aggies with 29 points.

The Sun Devils, breaking a five-loss streak, never led although Utah State beat them at 60-60 with 13:26 left. A short hook by John Mays put A-State ahead again. The Utes, now 8-8, pulled out big men and whittled a deficit down to five points 1:45 to play before finally running out of gas.

FIGHTING FOR THE REBOUND. Twin Falls' Paul Stover found this was one he couldn't catch up with Friday night in action against the Highland Rams. But it was just about the only one to elude him as Stover pulled in 23 rebounds, scored 14 points and led the Bruins to a 61-51 win. Rams pictured are Boyd Nilsson (11) and Brent Helm (30). Rookie Weathers Storm, Par to Seize Lead in Crosby Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif., Jan. 23 (AP) — Rocky Thompson, a rookie pro, surprised everyone at the storm-battered Bing Crosby tournament today and took the third round lead with a three-under-par 68 and a 54-hole total of 212. Thompson defended in near privacy at the more sheltered Monterey Peninsula Country club as defending champion Tony Lema soared to a 79 and Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus carded 77s at the Pebble Beach course. The 25-year-old Wichita Falls, Tex., pro, who financed his chance on the pro tour last summer by selling shares of stock in himself, holed five birdies on putts ranging from two feet to one of 80, which pleased him so much he stepped off the distance to make sure of the length.

A raw wind, with gusts up to 60 miles per hour, whipped up hills and lift the Jerome Tigers past the scrappy Buhl Indians 47-43. Phillips, who hit five of six attempts from the field in the middle quarters, saved the game for Jerome, although the Indians had several opportunities to catch up in the fourth quarter and failed. Phillips ended with 12 points while Millard netted 15 and Williams 14.

Buhl jumped in front 4-2 at the start of the contest and stayed there until Millard tanked a jump shot 15 seconds before the quarter buzzer to tie it at 12-12.

In the second period Jerome went in front by four points on buckets by Ben Thackery and Williams, but Ron Pierce hit three points and King got a pair of free throws to give Buhl a momentary 15-16 lead. In the next 37 seconds, Williams hit two field goals and Jerome stayed on top until halftime, although Buhl's Clark Griffith hit a rebound shot just at the buzzer to cut the edge to 30-29.

Buhl last held the lead early in the third quarter when Williams, also with a 77, had 233 and was cut from further individual competition.

Bill Collins and Charley Siford tied for second behind British open champ Lema after the second round, also soared Saturday. Collins had a 78 for a 217 total and Siford 83 for 222. Both played the 6,747-yard Pebble Beach course bordering the ocean.

It was so windy that long-hitting Paul Harnes hit two wood shots, both with his driver, on the 367-yard 17th hole at Cypress Point and still wound up 30 yards short of the green.

Eddie Merrick of Los Angeles sank a hole-in-one at the 100-yard 17th hole at Pebble Beach and finished with an 80. Great Britain's Tony Grubb had 90.

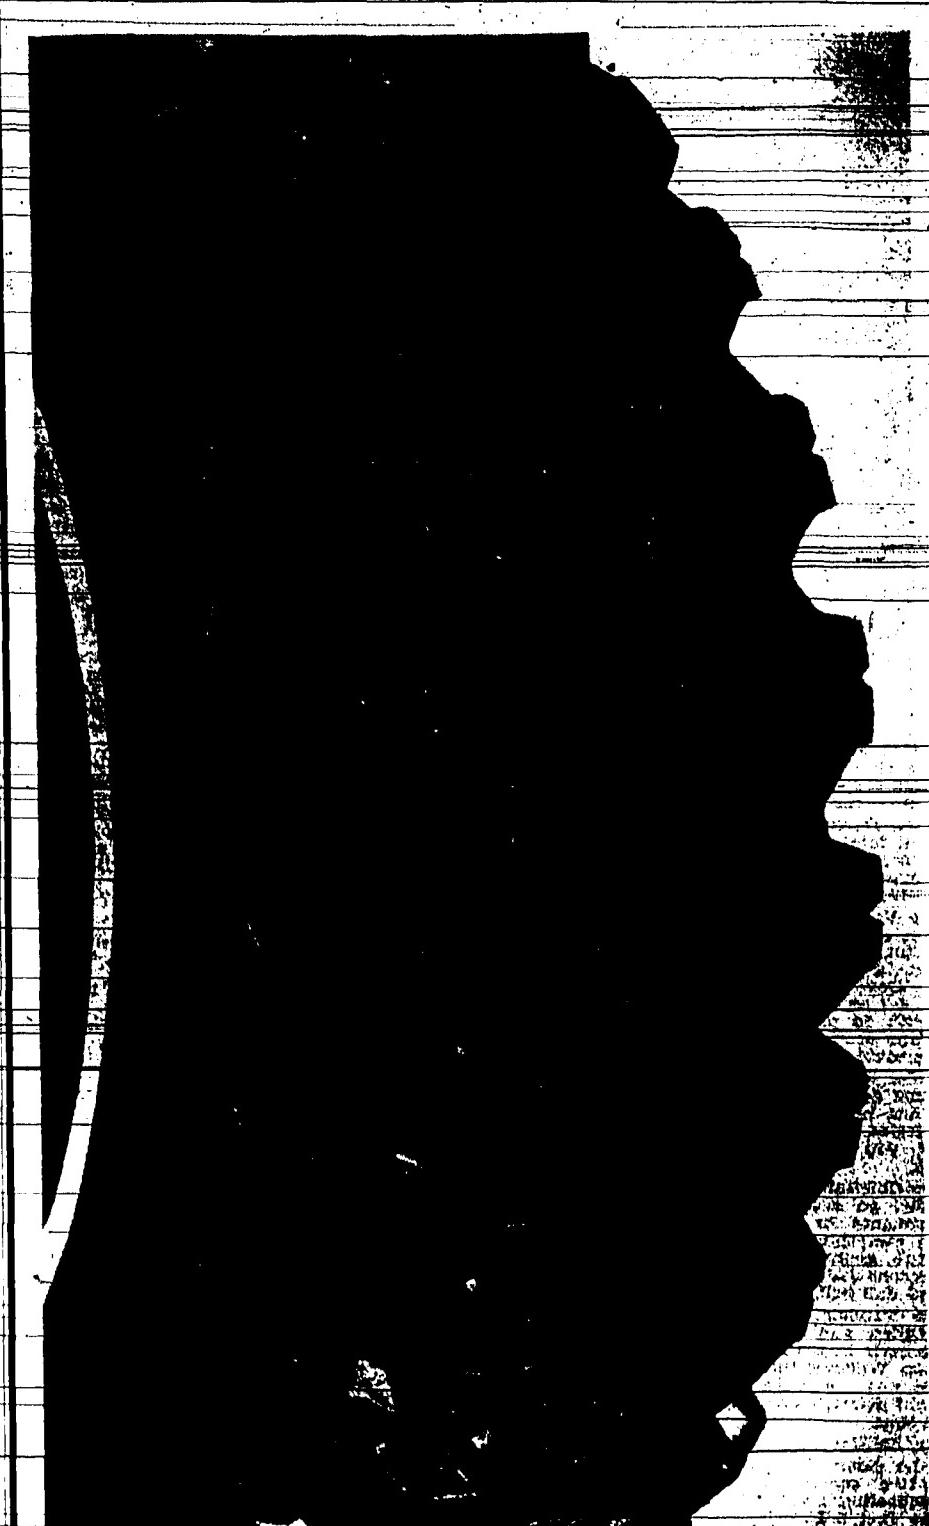

Venturi and his amateur partner Jim Lange, leaders of the team competition after 36 holes, sliced to a best-ball score of 304, par 72 and slipped to 198.

George Bayer and Morgan Barofsky of Walnut Creek, Calif., carded a 61 for a 103 total. The pro on the winning amateur team collects $4,000 compared with $7,000 for the individual pro.

Dischinger tied the score with a jump shot and moments later was close all the way even though Detroit managed to pull to an 11-point lead late in the third period. But that vanished quickly and Cincinnati went ahead 100-98 on Oscar Robertson's driving shot with 1:58 left.

The referee then called a technical foul on Jerry Lucas, and Dischinger hit with all three free throws for a creditable 76 at Pebble Beach for a 216.

ISU Uses Free Throws to Tip Montana; Washington Trounces Vandals 90-76

SEATTLE, Jan. 23 (UPI)—Idaho spotted the Washington Huskies too many early in the second half to beat the Montana Grizzlies 71-66, rally to suffer a 90-76 basketball defeat and pick up their first Big Sky conference win tonight, the second of their two-night series win of the season today. Although Seattle invasion, Seattle university beat the Vandals Friday 89-72. Lynn Nance and Jim Hermann tallied 21 points each to lead the Husky attack as Washington rolled to a 43-28 halftime advantage and once led by 23 points.

Except for a brief flurry at the start, when the lead changed hands three times, Washington had taken a 12-point edge in the first seven minutes.

Idaho started the second half with a brief rally that cut the margin to 11 but Washington in five more minutes ran the count to 68-42.

The Vandals, once more challenged, got the margin down to 10 points midway in the period but could close the gap no further. Dave Schlethauer, gunning 67 sophomore, paced Idaho with 18 points. Washington lost one of the 11 players used on personal fouls.

Senior guard Charlie Williams sparked Seattle university to an 18-point halftime lead and the Chieftains rolled on to an easy 89-73 win over Idaho Friday night.

The Chieftains gave the crowd an exceptionally sharp performance in the first half, doing everything well. But they couldn't maintain the pace in the second half and both teams played dull ball.

The Vandals stayed close to the Chieftains and trailed by only three early in the first period.

Then Williams turned on the steam and Seattle scored 10 straight points. It was no contest after that.

The halftime score was 51-33.

Idaho came out with a fast-moving 20th, but Chieftain sharpshooting, nearly 60 per cent in the first half, quickly forced the Vandals into a man-to-man which also was ineffective.

The Chieftains showed their best zone press of the year as they forced the Vandals into numerous first half mistakes.

PEOPLE WHO LOVE skiing for the exercise and thrill alone still climb snow-covered slopes where lifts are not available. This unusual picture, taken in the late afternoon when the low sun created strong cross shadows, shows four such people atop miniature mountain near Ketchum. Use of a high powered telephoto lens made the picture possible. Note the heavy snow overhang along the bow of the hill. This overhang was caused by strong winds which whipped the deep snow into this position. Such overhangs are dangerous in changing weather conditions and can lead to sudden avalanches. Deep Winter Snows Lure Area Lowland Residents

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

It is beautiful to see right now, and come spring and summer it will be the life blood that makes things grow. It is white and it is deep and there will be more of it before this winter is over.

And when it is over, and the white stuff starts to disappear from the hills and the mountains, it is going to be wet.

The experts in things of this type say it will be wetter than it has been for years — maybe wetter than it ever has been.

The white stuff that will become wet is snow. There is plenty of it up north in the Wood River country. In fact, right now the amount on the ground — even water-contentwise — is about three times more than normal.

All this, and February usually sees the big storms come in, officials point out.

The now relatively small and placid Big Wood river will, some predict, become a miniature Mississippi and there will be a lot of lowland damage when the runoff comes.

Officials of the irrigation company controlling Magic dam are taking all precautions. Even at this early date they are dumping water downstream to make room for that great amount to come later.

Through it all, however, the community of Ketchum and the businesses which surround it are enjoying a bonanza. The same goes for Sun Valley resort, under new management of the Janss corporation.

The deep snow is attracting those who are winter sports minded and those who are just coming up to look.

This was much in evidence on a recent Sunday when travelers noted that on highway 93 be-former manager of the Twin Falls Cowboys and now a Ketchum businessman. Scores of motorists have visited the north country to see the snow, which is the deepest in years in the area. (Times-News photo)

SNOW SWING varied on account of power pull acting near point of dropping from one side to mid-day sun weakens the mass. Passing motorists reported that two days after this picture was taken the unique formation still was in the same position. (Times-News photo)

BIGGEST HANGOVER in years is noted on buildings and homes in the vicinity of Ketchum. In this instance the unique snow formation is pictured on a shed in the railroad yard area. This condition is caused as the deep snow slips a little during a warm day and then "pauses" at night. Snows this deep are capable of breaking in roofs of cabins not especially built for such weight. (Times-News photo) pictures appear in a recent issue of "America Illustrated," a magazine for the Soviet people in the Russian language.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Maxine Shaw, CORRAL farmer and musician, whose name is synonymous with fiddling, appears in a full page picture on the cover of a recent issue of "America Illustrated." This magazine is published in the Russian language for the Soviet people. Shaw is shown in top hat and tails playing a fancy inlaid fiddle. He states that the fiddle was made by Bob Wallace, Miami, Ariz. The caption under the picture when translated states, "Strange tunes pour out from fiddle of old fashioned fiddler." Inside the magazine two

A musician friend in California discovered the pictures and article in the Russian magazine and sent a copy and the translation to Shaw.

At present the Idaho Oldtime Fiddlers are making plans for their convention Feb. 5 and 6 at Weiser. Henry Radamacher, Hagerman, is chairman of the south central district which includes Magic Valley.

When winter comes most farmers in this area begin to take a rest from their active summer routines but any mink farmers in Magic Valley know good pace of one fleshing while the other is removing the skin and putting another one on.

They are put on long narrow boards and stretched to their longest point and then hung up to dry for 36 to 48 hours. During the drying period Burch points out that the temperature has to stay pretty close to the 55-60 degree mark. Too warm a temperature causes them to dry too fast and curl while one too cold will not dry the pelts at all.

As soon as the pelts are dry they are removed from the boards, sorted as to color and sex and placed in long boxes which will eventually reach markets in several parts of the country where they will be auctioned.

This year Burch tried leaving a few pelts with the fur side out and found it highly successful. Along with the fact that many of the auction houses are requesting this method be used it also proves beneficial to the mink farmer because buyers are unable to see the fur on the inside of the pelt and will rip a pelt for a better view.

People who argue not used to care of immediately.

As soon as the animal is dead it is skinned and the carcass is discarded but the pelts are quickly frozen with a thick layer of fat on them. The reason for the freezing procedure is that the skin will quickly dry out and begin to curl if it is not taken care of immediately.

Until the last few years the skins were "leashed" by hand which is quite a hard job but now Burch uses an electric fleshing machine which both simplifies and speeds the job up. Long tapered poles hold the skins while clamps on the tails and feet hold them in position while an electric knife is used back and forth on the skin scraping the fat. Two men can keep a fast pace of one fleshing while the other is removing the skin and putting another one on.

This office determines and analyzes the needs and Garrett pointed out considerable pressure has been put on his office at intervals to close the Rupert office. Employers in many of the larger states pay twice as much into the fund as smaller states and are critical of these states receiving more than comes from their state.

The larger states have had tre

fer to talk outside the pelting house during this period but anyone working in the room can seldom smell anything after the first few minutes.

Some of the larger mink ranches in the area work through

January to get their pelts ready for market but Burch ends his season in December.

Several people were heard to say during the job, "If these women could only see what goes on behind the scenes to get a mink into a mink coat they wouldn't be quite so anxious to wear one."

Burch has been put on his office to help him in this endeavor.

Greater Chamber of Commerce. He will present his report during the February meeting.

It was noted that several businesses have been approached by individuals soliciting security police service.

Forest Blake, secretary, said the chamber would not consider endorsing any security services without the solicitor being bonded, properly insured and have the complete cooperation of the police and sheriff's departments.

William Welborn reported the right-of-way needed for land on which to place the chamber's business promotion sign near highway 30N has been delayed by the Union Pacific Railroad company.

Members were urged to watch for business establishments which are looking for a place to locate and report them to the chamber.

Chamber at Heyburn Eyes Cleanup

HEYBURN, Jan. 23—Members of the Heyburn Chamber of Commerce stressed the need to clean up the village when they met Wednesday evening at the village hall.

Robert Burnham, of the Minic-Cassia Equipment company, pointed out a determining factor on businessmen's decision to establish business here is the general appearance of the town.

The chamber discussed organizing a cleanup project of wrecked cars and junk iron which is being left on personal property.

The matter is to be discussed further at the next meeting Feb. 17.

Burnham said the village is charging him a higher rate for a three-phase electric connection at his business which he is not using. He said all of his business is carried on with a single-phase.

Forrest Blake and Bruce Brower were appointed committee to check on the situation with Ross Corless, chairman of the village board. Burnham noted he had contacted the officials previously with no satisfaction.

Leo Handy, chamber executive committee man, represented the chamber Wednesday at the industrial workshop held in Boise and sponsored by the House adopted a resolution requesting Idaho state legislature to make a provision for the distribution of a portion of the proceeds of a sales tax, should this become law, to municipalities.

The council heard specifications for a new fire truck from Fire Chief William Cowell and authorized him to accept bids, which will be opened March 2.

Ronald Klebe, city engineer, was authorized to attend a building-officers school in Pocatello Feb. 8-13 and council members examined drawings of a sewer plant building to house chlorine units.

Building permits were approved for Ronald Fager for a garage at 902 B Street in the amount of $1,500 and the council approved the transfer of a beer license from Keith Clayton to String Cox for the Blue Room.

Rezoning Is Requested by Rupert VFW

RUPERT, Jan. 23—A group of delegates of Harlow Hoopes post 3678 of Veterans of Foreign Wars requested their property be rezoned from residential to commercial usage when the Rupert city council met Tuesday evening.

A group of residents from the Idaho Realty addition, where the armory is located, also attended the meeting.

The VFW delegation requested the property, consisting of 1.00 acres and the armory, be rezoned from residential to commercial usage since the group is interested in selling the property to a commercial type business which would employ 12 to 14 individuals.

The council instructed the delegates their request should be taken to the zoning committee and a public meeting will be held for all interested persons.

Raises were approved for three city employees including Wallace Walker of the city electrical department, and Mrs. Forrest Badger and Gladys Steward, desk sergeants with the city police.

During the meeting the council

Investiture of St. Edward's Pastor Is Historic Event in Catholic Church

The investiture of the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edmund R. Cody as a protonotary apostolic in a ceremony at St. Edward's Catholic church last week was both colorful and historic.

It was only the third time that such a ceremony had been held in Idaho since members of the church first came to the section and it was the first time that it ever had been held in Twin Falls.

In addition to Monsignor Cody, two other priests had received the honor and although they were pastors of the local church, the ceremony had taken place at Boise headquarters of the Boise diocese.

The other two receiving the high honor in their lifetime were the late Rt. Rev. Msgrs. Remi Keyser and Joseph P. O'Toole.

A further historic aspect was added to the presentation when the various steps of the ceremony were photographed. It was the first time a series of pictures had ever been taken of such a ceremony.

Church officers selected O. A. (Gus) Ketke, feature editor of the Times-News and a professional photographer, to picture the event. Some of the pictures made by Ketke are used to illustrate this story.

A protonotary apostolic is a member of a special college of seven prelates in the Roman Curia. In more recent centuries the Popes have also appointed honorary protonotaries outside the city of Rome.

Monsignor Cody now belongs to this select group of clerics. Among other things, Monsignor Cody can now celebrate pontifical mass ad orientem on certain designated days.

Monsignor Cody was elevated to the rank by Pope Paul VI last November and the Most Rev. Sylvester W. Treinen, bishop of Boise, brought the original papal
